

Seminar on Higher Education Teaching and Learning

*08 June 2018
Universidad del Desarrollo*

The "Teaching and evaluation strategies that encourage learning and self-regulation of university students" international seminar was hosted at the Psychology Faculty 8 June 2018.

The specific focus of this event was to provide teaching tools to promote issues related to higher education.

Higher education is currently facing challenges such as the development of challenging and innovative professional competencies requiring teaching/evaluation processes that will encourage the development of learning and self-regulation skills for students based on the revision of practical tools.

The speakers at this interesting international seminar included Mr. Gavin Brown, a researcher from the University of Auckland, NZ and Daniela Bruna, a CIME researcher from the Universidad del Desarrollo Psychology Faculty.

MundoChile was invited to provide professional English-Spanish interpreting services at the important event.