For the very first time in Chile, the well-known US writer and expert on international relations, Fareed Zakaria, came to Chile for an important and well-attended event organized by Scotiabank within the context of a series of the so-called top level Scotia Talks.

During the seminar on "The New World Order", Zakaria outlined the would scenario around trade wars, whilst highlighting the current geopolitical challenges, as well as the current trade war between the USA and China which could lead us to a defining moment as regards a lack of world leadership.

MundoChile had the honor of helping stage this event with its simultaneous interpretation services throughout this important encounter; providing, as usual, top quality services.
